

Accessible Formats from Local Authority Library Services

Quick Guide

July 2010

Paul Nisbet

There are a great many titles readily available for loan as audio books and Large Print through your local library service.

Most local authority library services have online catalogue where you can search the entire stock of books held across the authority. The online catalogues usually let you search for different formats, including audio books, Large Print, Braille and eBooks.

When you search for a book, we suggest you use the Advanced Search options and type the name of the author or the title that you are looking for, then limit the search for the type of format you want, such as "Audio Book", or "Book – Large Print". If you just search for the title, you'll get all the copies that are held – paperback, hardback, DVD etc as well as the format you want.

We created the table below via an internet search. A tick indicates that the library online catalogue offers that particular format of book. Please let us know if any of the links or details are incorrect.

As well as searching online, remember you can also phone the library service and ask the librarian if they have the book you want in the format you need.
