

FAMILY FUN COMMUNICATION TECHNOLOGY EVENT

(ONLINE)

Saturday 30th October, 1 – 3 pm

Halloween Happenings

Spooky season is upon us and, in the best of Scottish traditions, it's time to come together to tell spine-tingling tall tales, sing spooky songs, and share our best nerve-jangling jokes.

Presented especially for children who use communication technology and their families living in Scotland, this event will feature storytelling, singing and jokes, with plenty of opportunity for everyone to join in with communication aids and symbols.

Augmentative Communication in Practice (ACIP:S), the organisation that brings together the various communication aid and assistive technology services in Scotland (CALL Scotland, FAACT, KEYCOMM, SCTCI and others) is hosting this event during AAC Awareness Month, which happens in October each year.

Halloween dress-up welcome!

WITH SPECIAL GUESTS

Ailie Finlay

Specialist Multi-Sensory Storyteller, founder of My Kind of Book, inclusive books and sensory stories

Marie Gallagher

Early Years Trainer with the Scottish Book Trust

How to take part

The event is free to take part in, but you will have to register for it through Eventbrite.

Click here to register

Spooky goings-on

The fun and frights will begin at 1 pm on Saturday 30th October. You may want to log in a few minutes earlier to make sure you can connect and are comfortable.

1 pm – Welcome and Introduction: Gillian McNeill, CALL Scotland

1.05 – Interactive Storytelling Session: Joanna Courtney, CALL Scotland

Book: Mouse's First Night at Moonlight School

1.30 – Sensory Story: Ailie Finlay, Specialist Multi-Sensory Storyteller

Story: The Wee Woolly Hat

2.00 – Questions and Answers Session: ACIP:S Team & Guests

A chance for parents to ask about using communication technology for storytelling and fun.

2.30 – Songs and jokes: Marie Gallagher, Early Years Trainer & Cordelia Manson, FAACT

Spooky songs and frighteningly good jokes. The best joke will win a prize!

Getting in touch

If you need more information about the event, or have any difficulty joining on the day, please contact...

acipscotland.wordpress.com/contact